Massachusetts Community
Health Centers

Massachusetts League
of Community Health Centers

Good health.
Right around the corner.

Massachusetts' 50 community health centers are conveniently located in communities throughout the state and offer a wide range of high quality primary and preventive health services — all in one place.

Community health centers undergo rigorous on-site accreditation visits and regularly exceed national quality and performance standards. Board-certified physicians are trained in a range of primary care specialties, including internal, pediatric and family medicine, as well as gynecology and obstetrics. Additionally, health center physicians have longstanding relationships with well-known academic medical centers and can help their patients access hospital-based specialists when needed.

Patients can also make appointments with dentists and optometrists as well as talk to a mental health counselor, nutritionist or nurse health educator. Many also have on-site pharmacies, mammography and other screening services as well as urgent care centers which can serve patients more quickly if they are sick. Importantly, patients living with chronic conditions such as diabetes, asthma, cancer, addiction or depression, have access to nationally-recognized programs that can help them better manage their illnesses.

Community health center services include:

- Pediatrics
- Obstetrics
- Dental Care
- Dermatology
- Elder Services
- Home Care
- Public Health Programs
- Substance Use Disorder Treatment
- Adult Medicine
- Gynecology

- Behavioral Health
- Podiatry
- Family Planning
- Nutrition/WIC
- School-Based Services
- Immunizations
- Family Medicine
- Laboratory
- Social Services
- Acupuncture
- Specialty Referrals
- Pharmacy Services
- Smoking Cessation & Prevention
- Outreach & Enrollment

Last year, more than 960,000 Massachusetts residents chose to receive their health care at a community health center, taking advantage of comprehensive, high-quality services available all in one place — a local health care home.

Need Health Insurance? Just Ask.

There are several low-cost health coverage plans available for Massachusetts' residents. To find out if you are eligible, ask the staff at your local community health center or go to www.massleague.org and click on "For Patients".

To find a health center near you, consult this directory. For more information on Massachusetts' community health centers, go to www.massleague.org.

Massachusetts League of Community Health Centers

Established in 1972, the Massachusetts League of Community Health Centers (“the League”) is a statewide association representing and serving the needs of the state’s 50 community health centers through grassroots advocacy; technical assistance with state and federal health regulatory and policy issues; training and education for administrators, clinicians and board members; help with health center information technology development; and work with local health and advocacy organizations seeking to open health centers in their communities. The League also serves as an information source on community-based health care to policymakers, opinion leaders and the media.
